

Environmental Policy

Franken-Schotter is a regionally rooted company that quarries and processes raw material and as such has a special responsibility with regards to environmental protection and the efficient and economical use of resources.

All decisions regarding planning, production processes and technologies are made with the goal of minimizing our effect on the environment, the biodiversity and the surrounding countryside where we operate in mind. Our priority is to continually improve our material- and resource efficiency throughout our entire value chain. It is clear that through technological and organizational improvements in the value chain we can achieve great strides in sustainability, environmental production and the impact we have on the landscape while simultaneously improving our bottom line.

With our integrated and resource-efficient value chain our standard is to be the model of resource efficiency, with that we expect others to imitate what we do.

We develop and produce sustainable products of enduring value. We support and encourage our clients to build sustainably with our products and provide all the necessary information for the corresponding certifications.

The abidance of the legal norms for environmental and climate protection is the very least we can do and represents the minimum of our goals.

We continually work on providing our employees with a safe and healthy environment in which to work in. We aim to continuously sensitize our employees on the importance of environmental protection and actively integrate them in finding solutions to the challenges we face.

We take into account the ecological aspects that come with the sourcing of products and materials. We take responsibility for economic stability in the region through the employment opportunities we create and the apprenticeships we offer young people as well as the work we outsource and external resources we employ that play an integral part in our value chain.

We guarantee a continual documentation and improvement of our environmental protection procedures through our environmental management system. Transparency of our environmental activities is provided through the publication of the environmental statement of Franken Schotter GmbH & Co. KG
